

What do you Value?

If I were to ask you to name the most valuable thing in the world, ounce for ounce, you would probably say that it was gold, or platinum or perhaps diamonds or emeralds. In fact the most valuable thing in the world measured by its weight is a piece of paper. It's not just any piece of paper, it's a stamp printed in Sweden in 1855. Known as the Treskilling Yellow, it is thought to be the only postage stamp of its kind in existence and it recently sold for 1.2 million dollars.

1.2 million dollars for a piece of paper. Wow. What do you value today? If I had to ask you the top 10 things that you valued what would it be?

Where does God, you family, your church, your friends come in the list of your top 10? When one thinks of what 1.2 million dollars could do devoted to good causes, it seems an awful waste of money. Some of the things that we value might not matter in the future of our souls either. The Bible tells us to seek HIM first and then other things will be added to our lives.

Today.....think about your priorities. You might be surprised as to what you are valuing!
